

Sensory Processing Disorder Support Group

1 in 6 children have sensory symptoms significant enough to hurt their social, emotional and academic development.

It is someone you know. So what can you do? It's time to talk to your child's doctors, teachers, principals, school nurses and therapists. It's time to raise awareness.

It's time for everyone to Come To Their Senses!

The primary knowledge base related to the intervention of SPD is based on Occupational Therapy ("OT") with a sensory-based approach. This focuses on using sensory-based interventions to improve the "occupations" of childhood such as learning, playing, sleeping, behaving appropriately, succeeding at school and performing daily routines.

Local support groups are run by parents and they are encouraged to share their personal experiences related to SPD. All comments or advice are the opinions of parents and are not recommendations for treatment.

The advice of a medical professional should always be sought for diagnosis and treatment.
